ALLIES GAIN EVERYWHERE—GERMANY FEARS GREECE WILL Join Against Her—Bulgaria Mobilizing--Allied Fleet Clearing Dardanelles

GERMANY FEARS GREECE WILL JOIN THE ALLIES

Capitalists Alarmed Over the Likelihood of More Enemies.

Also Worries Over Two More Missing Submarines.

(By Times Special Cable.)
London, March 6.—A Daily Express despatch from Amsterdam says:

Berlin was much excited to-day over two serious questions. The first concerned two submarines, which have not yet been reported to the naval authorities and are believed to be lost. The second was news from Athens to the effect that there is a possibility of Greece joining the allies.

On the submarine question the German naval authorities, while refusing to admit the loss, warn the public that one cannot make an estimate without breaking eggs, or smash up the British Empire without losing ships.

The attitude of Greece, as depicted in a Wolf Rurup telegram from Athens, is said to have put the people in a state of rage. It is remembered with considerable bitterness that the Kaiser, two years ago, bestowed a field marshal's sash on King Constantine, accompanying the bestowal by a surprising speech, where Germany posed as a neutral protector of Greece. On the other hand, the Germanization of Greece seems to have failed at Athens as it has everywhere else.

Squadron of Dragoons Got Away to Toronto Yesterday.

It was definitely announced that the mobilization of the various regiments that are to form the battalion of Infantry which Col. Ashton will lead in command of the battalion, will begin on Wednesday morning. It is expected that the contingents from St. Catharines, Dundas, Toronto, Brantford and Windsor will arrive. The banks for the old army are completed, the military conveniences are all installed and the barracks for the new army are about completed. By Wednesday morning will be in readiness. Col. Ashton will be in the city to take over command of the battalion. The officers expressed some surprise this morning at the fact that they were being called to arms so early. ## A BAD WEEK FOR THE KAISER.

There is every evidence that the British and French Governments will not give way to the neutral states in their determination to starve Germany by every means in their power. International law may get fractured in the process, but no matter what the law. When a man is fighting for his life and for the lives of his friends he is not particular as to the means he uses in his efforts to win the war. When a nation is fighting at defiance when Germany assailed and overran Belgium, but the neutral powers did not even manifest the least interest in the fate of their own subjects suffered. Britain is fighting on behalf of a nation that wanted to remain neutral, but the other nations stand aside and see her ravaged. Need we wonder that the allies feel it necessary to win this war even if these mild sentiments should suffer? The British and France are succeeding in the process of strangling Germany there can be no mistake, and it is a question if the neutral states stand aside and see her ravaged. Need we wonder that the allies feel it necessary to win this war even if these mild sentiments should suffer?

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Sultan should learn the Turkish trot.
Beware of the man offering to sell you "lubricant."
The Queen Elizabeth is behaving like a lady in the Dardanelles.

Prof. Shorty, in short, wants to meet Robert Rogers face to face and have it out.

What will the Government do now that it has the evidence as to the kind of boots made for the soldiers?

The London Free Press now dubb British factories and workmen "foreign factories and workmen." That's going some.

The Toronto City Council has removed the "fair wages" clause from all city contracts. This is a direct slap at organized labor.

Five thousand dollars for running a German submarine to protect the water. The "tube" should be in hot water all the time.

"Peace with honor," the new German slogan, is, momentarily, the same as Darnell brought home from the Berlin conference many years ago. But in this it was a victorious one.

Cecil Chesterton, who came to the States to talk up the British side of the war, has returned home. His latest article in the "Nation" is a masterpiece. The British Embassy at Washington gave him the cold shoulder.

Britain will take better care of her old soldiers in future. The new war pension scheme, according to the actuarial calculations, will involve an expenditure of $1,725,000,000 before the last sufferer dies. The figure is based on an average being put back in the field for two years, an army of 1,000,000 men, of whom 18 per cent will be killed and 18 per cent disabled. Hereafter the veterans will not be sent to the workhouse.

"Hand over to us, 2,000,000 people the sum of $600,000,000 in ten years, and that people is bound to be prompt. Well, that is the amount which the people of the Northwest will have to hand over. Hereafter the veterans will not be sent to the workhouse."

The New York Central Railroad Company has been awarded the Harris medal for the utmost progress in safety work. The company has been making the presentation Professor Frederick R. Hutton, of Columbia University, stated that the record of the New York Central is remarkable in that during the past four years there had not been a single passenger fatality in a train accident, although during that time the number of passenger trains had increased from 100 to 1,000.

Orches are good enough to fight in the trenches, but Government contracts for war material are not for them. The Toronto Saturday Night tells of a Toronto manufacturer whose factory was on half time going to Ottawa looking for a clothing contract. He was told: "Your firm is not on the list of clothing contractors. You are one of two ladies' cloak and suit houses called on by a queer set of 'dons'—overcoats were made. Each of these firms has a contract, without the experience, the equipment, or the workmen to do the work. Another manufacturer was offered a clothing contract. He was told to turn the blessing down because he owned a carriage factory, and couldn't make overcoats with leather-working tools. Very often the Government is keeping the 'party' busy."

AN INSULT.
(St. Thomas Journal).
Dress suits at council meetings are proposed by one John Jones, who has no doubt to do anything in Hamilton.

THOSE BOOTS!
(Brantford Expositor).
The Canadian troops are going to the front with the German duds, but that is no reason why they should turn the backs of their feet to the enemy. Instead of serviceable shoes.

BATHING SUITS AT COUNCIL
(Kingston Standard).
A Hamilton advertiser has suggested that the members of the council should wear dress suits. Coolness does not mean that they should bathe. Why not, or bathing suits?

REFORM THE BOSS.
(Ottawa Citizen).
Sprey the time has arrived in the history of Canadian political life to reform the boss. The time has arrived in their due place, to impress on the elected boss the fact that he is no longer an overlord, but a servant.

THE SULTAN SHOULD LEARN THE TURKISH TROT.

Fabric Hats for "In Between" Seasons

Small, Chic, and Unusual

Neatly Close-Fitting Silk Shape

A Green and White Conservative Model

Becoming Shape in Sand Color and Brown

IN THAT season when winter hats begin to look warm and summer straws yet give one a chilly impression the fabric hat steps in and saves the situation. The "in-between" hat this year will be more generally worn because it is decidedly the fashion, and the models here shown display the best points among this class of millinery. There is a tendency to show more of the hair than during the winter months. Even the larger hats are worn at a decided angle, so that the hair is quite exposed on one side of the head at least.

The natty sailor in brilliant blue cotton crepe is a model that is becoming to most faces. The color can be changed to suit the complexion of the wearer. The blue sailor has about the crown and rim a buttonhole stitch in black, set very wide apart. While in this instance the brim is quite short, it can be widened to suit the face of the wearer.

Liberty silk is the fabric used in the close-fitting model with its snug, turned-up brim. The hat itself is of sand-colored liberty silk, while a band of ribbon three-quarters of an inch wide, copenhagen blue, woven basket fashion, forms the crown band. The pretty pheasant feather in brown and gold completes the harmonious combination. That ribbon used for the woven band is grosgrain and is most effective. Certain hats must be worn tilted if you would be smart. A famous milliner has said: "It is not so much the hat, but the way in which the hat is worn that makes a woman have chic or appear a frump."

There is a rumor, however, that the time is coming, and very soon, when it will be the fashion to wear the hat straight upon the brows and, possibly, tilted slightly over the nose. A very few women have substantiated the rumor, but the average woman hesitates to adopt the fashion until it becomes more general, knowing that it adds instead of subtracts years. The tilt invariably nips off a year or so, unless the woman be so clearly that the tilt assumes a rakish effect.

Small, chic and unusual is the dark brown silk hat with its cord-and-ball tassels in orange worsted. This is another hat that it would be impossible to wear in any other fashion than decidedly tilted. About its tiny brim the orange worsted is worked at intervals. The worsted cord and tassels are all crocheted, the whole making a pleasing color combination when worn with the sand-colored blouse in which the model appears.

A conservative model, and one for the older woman who yet likes bright colors, is the hat of green-and-white taffeta. While the hat itself is in white taffeta, the brim is faced in a soft, subdued emerald. The white buckle is bordered with green, and the whole is toned down by the brown-and-gold pheasant quills. The curling of the brim at the sides prevents the hat from being too youthful for the woman over 40.

The fashionable combination of sand-color and brown is again seen in the pretty model covered with sand-colored silk and faced with brown hennip. Sand and brown forms the band and a smart little fan of sand ribbon is placed at the side. Grosgrain ribbon is best for this method of trimming. The low-domed crown is one that will not make the small woman look top-heavy, which large crowns have a tendency to do. The clever and unusual band is made of outstanding accordion, pleats or, rather, folds, as they are not knife-edged, as is the regulation pleating. These pleats form blocks and are placed alternately in horizontal and vertical positions.

All of these models are possible to the home milliner.

DISILLUSIONED

Bavarian King Thought French Were Cheating Him.

London, March 6.—A despatch to the Daily Express, dated on the Belgian frontier, says:

The King of Bavaria, who was travelling to visit the army in Northern France, was surprised and gratified to find the cheers of the British population of the advanced countries around him.

At the moment of his arrival at the headquarters of the British Expeditionary Force, he was met by the British staff, and he was met by the British staff, and he was met by the British staff.

A general disillusioned of the situation of the British Expeditionary Force, he was met by the British staff, and he was met by the British staff, and he was met by the British staff.

Confessions Of a Wife

I Will Not Give Up Kitty

book, that I shall do nothing of the kind. I am fond of Kitty since we married that I was before. I know she is a woman capable of great good and by the same token of great evil. I have always believed that the greatest sin of a woman is to be untrue to her husband.

"My dear Kitty," he said, "you are certainly as sweet as a June morning."

Kitty rose to the occasion beautifully and ignored the fact that she had been told that she was not to do so. "I can't help remembering a June morning, Dick, when I was in the sunshine of your love, and then she murmured in an aside to me, 'after this marriage of mine' you will proceed to enjoy me."

During the entire breakfast, Dick was so attentive to Kitty that I was really afraid she would suspect he was making game of her. I don't know she did suspect anything, but I was sure she was not to do so.

Do you know, little book, I think men are just as hypocritical as the women. Here was Dick telling me the night before that I must not be seen with Kitty and making her feel like his long lost sister the next morning, and I venture he will joke with me about it later on.

I believe that much of the approval which women have to be suffered on account of their heartless treatment of their men, who for some reason have been sent to Coventry by Mrs. Grundy is because their men have said to them: "You must not treat such and such a woman decently, while she has been your wife," while all the while they themselves were making the poor thing that in their eyes her little indiscretions were greatest of crimes.

Here was Dick almost making love to Kitty in his intimate apartment, and then he was telling me to go to Coventry.

I may as well confess to you, little book, that I am not a hypocrite.

125 RUGS

Beautiful Specimens

In a Great Sale Starting Monday

THE policy of economy adopted by the people after the war broke out caused a sharp falling off in the sales of Oriental Rugs, and many importers found themselves with large stocks and no prospect of disposing of them.

Prices naturally "slumped."

This sale is one result. We believe that the lovers of Oriental Rugs who have been "holding off" cannot fail to be attracted by the remarkable savings offered now, as here is:

One of the Best Collections of Oriental Rugs at Prices Lower Than at Any Other Time

Besides the financial attraction, another convincing reason for buying NOW is that the peculiar conditions responsible for this event made the possibility of a repetition of it very remote. Big wars do not happen every day.

War Budget Dispel the Mysteries of Taxation

"The budget of Tom. White's," remarked Fred Parson, "reminds me of the big ones in Uncle Tom's Cabin—Bills, Crooked the River on the lot."

And indeed, the analogy is good for, to say nothing about tax-slavery, the Finance Minister does ship property from floor to floor, taking advantage of every cash, so to speak, except perhaps the banks and money corporations which he might have pressed a little harder.

I spoke to a number of Parliament about the other day, suggesting that the banks in the United States had to pay two and a half per cent on their note circulation, and why they had to do so in Canada. His reply was prompt and to the point. "This is a Parliament full of over-optimists," he said, "and we have quarrel with the banks."

Well, there's something to that, as the baron said when he put his hand on the water-bucket. Little by little criticism is taking shape. Patriots who have things to sell which are not wanted by the new tariff write in to make a hole.

The Dominion Orange and the Grain Growers' Association together. The people from coast to coast have thought over the subject, and have formed definite opinions of which they keep their representatives in the House of Commons advised.

Conservative members get as many letters as the other fellows. One way and another the budget is being thoroughly debated in and out of Parliament. It is the backbone of discussion in the Green Chamber, and when it falls passed, it will fade away in short order.

THE SESSION'S LENGTH. As everything except the budget is emergency measure upon which both parties are more or less agreed, or if not agreed are true-bound and silent, the budget is about the only thing that can be depended on to keep talk going.

However, the while have many fifty speakers on the list yet, so that unless the thing called on as German resistance is expected to do this summer, the budget is good for two weeks from this writing.

That will bring Parliament within sight of Easter, which was its first guess as a date for rising. The object is not to get home too soon to satisfy the voters that the members have been earning their money.

ENLIGHTENED IN TIME?

Enlightenment—that is about the only blessing the opposition can see in the new budget. But enlightenment counts. The only question is, will it come fast enough for the next election.

Prophets said direct taxes in Canada were fifty years distant. Up to the present the only direct tax the people of Canada paid was for postage.

But now they have had to pay for their letters, but now they know how the principle can be extended. Indirectly they have had to pay the gap between direct taxes and indirect taxes.

Very little has been said about the stamp taxes so far, except that the poor man pays as much about the same as the rich man.

But the war holds that no longer. The war budget has enlightened the East, and now everybody knows as much as everybody else.

SUNK ANOTHER

French Cruiser Destroyed a German Submarine.

Paris, March 5.—The Ministry of Marine to-day gave out a statement to the effect that the French cruiser "Albatros" had destroyed a German submarine of the U-2 type, had been fired by the British submarine "Hedgehog" yesterday.

The submarine plunged, and no further trace of her was seen.

The text of the announcement follows:

"During the day of March 4 a French warship, belonging to the second light squadron, encountered a German submarine of the U-2 type in the English Channel. Three shots were fired by the French ship, and the submarine plunged and disappeared. No trace of her could be found."

MR. STRONG AND THE DEITY.

To the Editor of the Times:

Mr. Strong's biographical life, occupations, past and present, of the deity (as it suits his mind), is not to be estimated from the list of facts stated. All Christians have been habituated to hear the most ancient data recorded in Divine history (generally known as the Bible) but not by its title of history. What is the good of history, all things considered?

I have often thought of Mr. Strong, a-silencing, of course, to the Old Book. And now, after all this time, I am glad to hear that he has been found. He is now in the hands of the press, and his presumed conversation with the deity is being published. I am glad to hear that he has been found. He is now in the hands of the press, and his presumed conversation with the deity is being published.

TWO VIEWS OF THE WORLD—THE GOLF COURSE AT ST. ANDREWS BY THE SEA

THE golfing season for Canada is fast approaching, and in a very few weeks the greenmen will be busily engaged in preparing temporary greens for use until the grass has had a chance to recover its exuberance after lying dormant through the winter months. Golf is becoming more popular than ever throughout the golf courses have been laid out in connection with some of the hotels belonging to the spry, and the links at St. Andrews, N.B., and at Banff, Alta., rank among the most popular in North America. At St. Andrews there are two courses, one of eighteen holes and one of nine, the former being second only, after the links of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, where the game was being played for the first time. The golf course at St. Andrews is famous for its golfers, ranging from three to five hundred yards long, which, naturally, allows the player to make free use of his brain for long driving. The Banff course is famous for its magnificent situation, lying in the beautiful Bow Valley, and is always patronized by Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, when visiting the West.
